

QUARTERLY MARKET REVIEW

In the fourth quarter of 2017 the global economy continued its steady expansion coupled with low inflation. In the U.S., equities were strong, buoyed by the prospect and eventual passing of tax reform legislation. U.S. interest rates rose by 25 bps. The market has continued to favor risk-on investments, as evident by the strength of the technology sector, emerging markets and growth indices. Risk-off sectors, such as utilities, underperformed.

In the U.S. for the fourth quarter of 2017, the small-mid cap Russell 2500 Growth® gained 6.35% while the Large-Cap Russell 1000 Growth® gained 7.86% and the Russell 3000 Growth® gained 7.61%. In the international equity markets, the MSCI ACWI ND® gained 5.73%.

STRATEGY REVIEW

For the fourth quarter of 2017, the Global Growth Fund underperformed its benchmark, the MSCI ACWI World Index. While performance was largely driven by our stock exposure, on a sector level, health care and consumer discretionary were the largest detractors.

Contributors

PayPal Holdings, Inc., a key supply chain participant in the electronic payments industry, was a contributor to performance during the quarter. The company reported positive Q3 earnings with revenue growing in the high 20% range. The company reported a 3.8% quarter-over-quarter active user growth rate, the highest active user growth achieved since the company's spinoff from eBay, resulting in 218mm active users. The company also announced that over 2mm PayPal merchants will now accept Venmo, an attractive offering for merchants targeting millennials. Notwithstanding the impressive stock performance year-to-date, we are excited about PayPal's future growth prospects. PayPal's core payment product continues to show significant growth by expanding its reach into physical merchants, via Venmo and PayPal, and by increasing infrastructure offerings to other payment companies, via Braintree.

InterContinental Hotels Group PLC, a global hotel business comprised of various owned, leased, managed, and franchised hotels in countries worldwide, was a contributor to performance during the quarter. The company reported positive 3Q earnings with revenue per available room up 2.3% year-over-year (YOY), despite weakness in the Americas. Net new room growth was the strongest it had been since 2010. Overall, we believe the market continues to undervalue the company's long-term cash flows and growth profile. The company is essentially a low-capital intensive, royalty collecting enterprise with lower earnings and cash flow volatility compared to many of its competitors. As a result, we believe the company should have a lower cost of capital and higher free-cash-flow multiple compared to industry peers.

MercadoLibre, Inc. a top online retailer in Latin America, was a contributor to performance during the quarter. The company reported positive 3Q17 earnings, beating revenue and earnings per share estimates. Items sold were up 55.8% YOY and unique buyer growth was up 31.1% YOY. Overall, as the digital marketplace leader in Latin America, we believe that MercadoLibre is well positioned to benefit from the secular growth of ecommerce within the region.

Detractors

Celgene Corporation, a biopharmaceutical company focused on treatments for cancer and other severe, immune, inflammatory conditions, was a detractor from performance during the quarter. The stock was down post earnings due to investor concern over the future growth of an important drug. The company cited lower pricing than expected and higher marketing spending for Otezla, a pill for psoriasis and psoriatic arthritis, which has been showing strong growth in recent periods. Management believes price discounting to increase market share in future years is the right strategy, albeit at the expense of revenue and earnings expectations in the next few years. Furthermore, the recent failure of a Crohn's disease drug in clinical trials has created concern regarding the depth of Celgene's pipeline, which has franchise critical drugs rolling off patents in 2027. We believe that the pipeline disappointment and lower growth expectations for Otezla are the current drivers behind the negative sentiment surrounding the stock. We, however, are optimistic regarding the company's ability to build upon its core cancer franchise, expand indications, and attain positive readouts from its pipeline opportunities.

Electronic Arts Inc., a game software developer, publisher and distributor, was a detractor from performance during the quarter. The company received immense backlash related to the Star Wars Battlefront II game, with consumer complaints that the game places key content behind a paywall. The company responded to the criticism by turning off all-in game purchases until further notice, which combined with customer discontent, may effect this quarter's earnings. While we are disappointed in management's mishandling of this issue, the impact is contained to one game at this point and we still believe that the company's shift towards more digital downloads and increased mobile gaming should drive more stable revenue growth and increased margins in the future.

Symantec Corporation, a global leader in security and information management solutions, was a detractor from performance during the quarter. The company reported mixed fiscal Q2 results with in-line revenue and a cut in guidance for fiscal 3Q 2018 and FY2018, driven in part by higher near term spending. However, management remains confident that they can achieve their second half 2018 guidance through organic growth and large new deals. We believe the stock has been oversold due to high market expectations rather than poor execution. We like the risk/reward profile of the business and believe in the long-term secular growth of the cybersecurity market.

MARKET OUTLOOK

Despite positive absolute returns in the equity market over the past several years, Jackson Square Partners believes that a lack of meaningful volatility combined with tepid investor confidence in the global macroeconomic outlook demonstrates that there are more than just fundamental factors affecting stock prices. Many investors have struggled with accurately predicting the pace of global economic recovery and assessing external factors that threaten economic fundamentals, such as central bank actions and fiscal policy debates across the globe. Nonetheless, absolute equity market returns have been strong since the market bottom in 2009, perhaps driven by asset allocation decision-makers seeking the potential for high returns in a low interest rate environment. The result has been more of an investor focus on equities as an asset class as opposed to a focus on company-specific fundamentals.

More recently, President Trump's surprising victory in 2016 and periodic corresponding market reactions during the first year of his presidency reflect growing investor optimism, at least in the short-term, that potential policy shifts could stimulate economic growth. While there are varying degrees of uncertainty to President's Trump's unconventional style as a head of state and current questions and investigations surrounding his administration may hamper significant policy change in the short term, we are mindful of the potential macroeconomic implications of Trump policy shifts, e.g. economic growth, higher corporate and personal incomes from lower tax rates, etc. We believe it is too early to determine the long term direction or magnitude of such outcomes but we will closely monitor President Trump's tenure with a keen eye on the execution of significant policy shifts.

Nonetheless, regardless of policy outcomes, we remain consistent in our long-term investment philosophy:

We want to own what we view as strong secular-growth companies with solid business models and competitive positions that we believe can grow market share and have the potential to deliver shareholder value in a variety of market environments.
